

This cross section of the human eye shows the passage of light. Note that the retina receives an inverted image. What is the main function of the rods and cones?

